

Hospital Meeting Set For Hondo

C. of C. Sends Special Letter To County Citizens

The Hondo Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, meeting Monday afternoon, drew up a letter and set a meeting to discuss ways and means of getting a hospital program started in Medina County. The letter was mailed to a cross-section of Medina County citizens and will be used to study the necessity of such a hospital, the method of raising the county's share of the cost and requirements for State aid.

The Chamber set March 22 at 8 p.m. in the Medina County Courthouse at Hondo as the time and place for the county-wide meeting.

Thirty years ago, Mrs. Mary Cook and Mrs. Alice Bertraver started Medina Hospital, the largest hospital in the county. Castroville and Devine also have hospital facilities. The two Medina Hospital owners have expressed their desire to shut down operation of the hospital, using their facilities as a convalescent home.

Mayor O. A. Fly and Dr. Joe Mims, both of Hondo, drove to Austin recently for a conference with Dean F. Winn, M. D., who is director of the Division of Hospital Services of the State Department of Health. Winn said Medina County should send in an application for Hill-Burton funds as soon as possible.

Anyone interested in the county-wide hospital project is invited to attend the Hondo meeting.

The letter is as follows:

Bear John Doe: Quite possibly you have already read or heard that Medina County is eligible to secure State aid for building a larger and more modern hospital. This letter is one of our first steps towards securing this badly needed hospital.

Medina Hospital of Hondo, owned and operated by two local women, has been a life saver for many Medina County citizens. However, these two good women wish to retire but realizing the dire need for a hospital, will continue to operate their hospital until a new one can be built.

In the event this hospital becomes a reality, it will not affect the other hospitals in this county but quite the contrary, will be a benefit to the doctors and patients of this area. The proposed hospital will have all the modern facilities of the larger hospitals in San Antonio and patients for major surgery will be able to stay near their homes and have specialists attend them in their own hospital instead of having to go out of town.

The Hondo Chamber of Commerce has undertaken the project of sponsoring this proposal and have selected a cross section of Medina County citizens to study the necessity of such a hospital, the method of raising the county's share of the cost, and the requirements for State aid.

Will you please attend a meeting on March 22, 1957, at 8 p.m. in the Medina County Courthouse to discuss ways and means of getting this project rolling?

To Discuss Show

Directors and interested persons will meet Monday night at 8 p.m. at the Devine High School to review the 1957 Medina County Junior Fat Stock Show and make plans for next year's show. C. B. Gaston, county agent, said here this week.

The meeting is open to the public and everyone interested is invited to attend. New directors will be elected.

Bird, Plane Hondo Man Wonders

It's a bird, it's a plane—well, W. R. Johnston of Hondo is still looking to see whether it's a bird or a plane.

Johnston's four-foot wing span model airplane, radio controlled, flew out of radio range this week on its maiden voyage and disguised itself as a buzzard. The plane was flying straight northwest and Johnston estimates it is down within two to six miles directly northwest of the Glascock Auxiliary Field, where it took off on its maiden flight.

Johnston watched its flight and got the plane mixed up with a buzzard before it got out of radio range. He is offering a reward for its return though. The plane has white paper covering with a plain card on the side with the owner's name and address. The plane had only enough power for a five minute flight, he said.

Who knows, maybe it chased the buzzard!

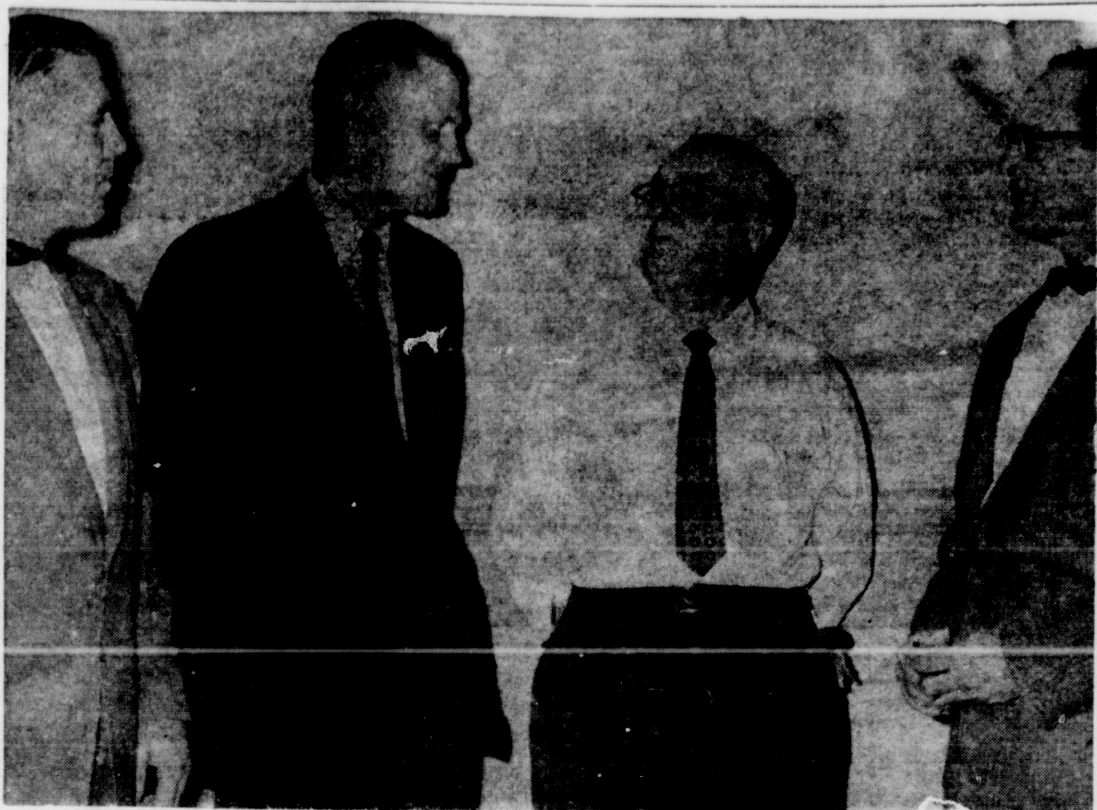

Local Club Supporting Hospital

The local chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha is the first club in Medina County to go on record supporting a hospital project for the area.

At their meeting Thursday night, the organization pledged its support and agreed that each time they stage some money-making project a certain percent of their profits will be earmarked for their hospital fund.

As a starter, they voted to place $50 in a savings account in the bank allowing it to draw interest and with each money making venture, more funds will be added.

In their discussion of the project it was suggested that they work toward having enough funds for some specific part of the hospital — for example, furnish a room in the new structure.

High Key Rates

Hondo Names Fire Marshall

The Hondo City Council, meeting in regular session two weeks ago, voted Orby Swartzell, police chief, new fire marshall for the city of Hondo. Swartzell will replace Edgar Stieglar as fire marshall, and will draw $5 per month for duties performed.

The Council, disturbed over the 64 cents key rate on fire insurance, will attempt to have reports filed in the State office, on time. Recent reports from the city fire marshall have been arriving a month late at Austin.

A recent combustible roof survey should help reduce the key rates on insurance in Hondo. The fire marshall, as explained in the insurance key rate books, shall investigate all fires and make regular inspections of mercantile manufacturing and public buildings, report of the same to be made to the Texas Fire Insurance Department. The city is penalized three cents on key rates because the fire marshall does not file written reports on time, insurance records show.

Jim Hart Speaks In Hondo

Judge Jim Hart, candidate for the United States Senate, told of his objectives if elected to fill the unexpired term of Price Daniel, now governor of Texas, to about 20 Medina County residents last Thursday. He spoke in the District Courtroom at Hondo.

Hart said his objectives in the Senate were to "see the country strong, secure, free and united. In explaining these objectives, Hart said to be strong, "we must have full use of our national resources, including soil and water."

He said he was opposed to Federal control of schools but was in favor of government aid "when necessary."

On the farm program, Hart said he believes farmers need at least 90 per cent of parity in price supports, "but I don't think this offers a permanent solution of the farm problem." He doesn't feel anyone has come up with a satisfactory farm problem solution as yet.

Hart was born Nov. 11, 1904, in Austin. He attended Austin Public schools, the University of Texas, Harvard University Law School and holds an honorary LL. D. from Baylor University. He practiced law in New York City and Austin, except when holding public offices. He has served as district attorney, Travis County; special district judge, Travis County; assistant attorney general; Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas; and Chancellor of the University of Texas.

He is also a member of President Eisenhower's committee on education beyond the high schools, which is now studying problems confronting the nation in the field of higher education. Hart was introduced by Joe E. Briscoe of Devine.

Tractor Accident

Boyd Patterson, Devine, was rushed to a San Antonio hospital Friday, March 8, after driving his tractor too close to a barbed wire fence and cutting his leg. When the tractor went along side the fence, Patterson's leg became entangled in the wire. He came entangled and returned home the same day.

Hondo's key rate is much higher. Bandera's key rate is 46 cents while Devine's is 42 cents. Other cities and their rates are Brackerville, 40 cents; Carrizo Springs, 35 cents; Crystal City, 42 cents; Eagle Pass, 29 cents; Gonzales, 22 cents; Kerrville, 30 cents; Lockhart, 22 cents; New Braunfels, 15 cents; Pearsall, 42 cents; Pleasanton, 42 cents; Robstown, 32 cents; and Sabin, 64 cents. The state insurance department has just published the revised edition of their key rates for Texas cities.

In comparison with other cities, Hondo's key rate is much higher.

County Hospital Site Offered Near Here

The Anvil Herald received a letter from J. Frank Jungman of Houston, concerning Medina County's plans for a county-wide hospital.

Jungman has offered a five-acre tract of land on the northeast edge of the Hondo city limits.

The letter is as follows: Bill Berger, Anvil Herald: Reading about the Medina County Hospital plans, it occurs to Arthur and I that it might help the plans some to offer a hospital site, so

Arthur and I do offer to the duly constituted Medina County Hospital a site of not to exceed five acres of land out of our 130-acre farm at the northeast edge of Hondo, to be deeded to the Hospital free and clear, with the provisions that: the Hospital must be built on the site, that the site be chosen, selected, surveyed, at no expense to us, and be in one tract, that the selection must be made not later than Sept. 1, 1957.

To us, it would seem that the Highway Patrolman Harry Heidemann investigated three accidents during the past week.

Ernest Mummie, 57 year old Hondo resident, received $450 damage to his 1953 Ford March 3, when a 1955 Chevrolet, driven by Luis Cruz Flores Jr., 48, of San Antonio, collided with the rear of Mummie's car. Damage to the Flores car was estimated at $365.

Mummie was attempting a left turn from Farm Road 173, onto Highway 90 at the time of the accident. Two persons, Mrs. Alice Flores 27, and Luis Flores, 1, were thrown from the Flores car. They were taken to Medina Hospital with minor injuries.

Flores was charged with failing to control speed to avoid an accident.

Farm Road 173, nine miles south of Hondo, was the scene of another accident March 11 at about 1:10 a.m. A 1951 Pontiac driven by Mary Elva Alvarado 30, received $800 damage when she apparently fell asleep and hit a small culvert bridge, angling across the highway and overturning on the left side of the highway.

Mrs. Alvarado, who is from Harlingen, was charged with no drivers license.

Gerald Bryan Durrett, 26 year old Hayward, Calif. resident, received $45 damage to his 1949 Chevrolet station wagon, when he ran into the rear of a 1951 GMC pick up driven by Paul Robert Richter, 72, Hondo.

Richter had pulled off on the right of Highway 90, to allow traffic to pass before making a left turn to Richter Road, 1.5 miles west of Hondo. Durrett attempted to go around the pick up and collided with the right rear of the Richter vehicle, causing an estimated $40 damage.

The accident happened March 9 at 9:45 a.m.

Castroville Citizens Will Hold Clean-Up March Next Week

Mayor Woodrow Sharp, in a proclamation to the citizens of Castroville, designated the third week of March for the 1957 CLEAN-UP, PAINT-UP, FIX-UP campaign for Castroville.

In past years, this organized effort by Castroville citizens has

Zoning Group Planned

The Hondo City Council set up a zoning committee and adopted a zoning ordinance regulating building in residential areas at a meeting held recently at the city office.

Johnny Poerner, surveyor, was hired as engineer for the city and will work with the planning and zoning committee as needed. The zoning ordinance was adopted until the zoning committee has a chance to work out an acceptable ruling on city building.

Members of the committee will be named at the next regular meeting by Mayor O. A. Fly.

By unanimous decision, the council voted to enforce a present ordinance stating all residences within 200 feet of the sewer line must connect to the sewer. Many Hondo residences do not connect to the sewer line, although the ordinance has been passed for some time.

School zones will be marked off on Highway 90 and speed limits have been set at 20 miles per hour during school hours. The council adopted an ordinance setting the speed limits, and instructed police chief Orby Swartzell to enforce it during school hours.

The council has urged parents to encourage their children to use the school crossings on Highway 90 when walking to and from school. Signs will be placed along the street to warn motorists before they enter the 20 mile per hour zone. The two speed zones will be two blocks long.

O. L. Moss, city secretary, presented the city's eight months tentative operating budget during the meeting.

Texas Water Problem--4

Citizens Must Join Forces In Texas

Courtesy Dallas News

(Continued From Last Week) The other proposed measures are largely remedial in character, most of which strengthen the authority of the State Board of Water Engineers in its supervision over both surface and groundwater supplies.

In the meantime, the drought has stimulated public thinking to bring forth an array of water conservation plans, some of which are sensible, some of which are fantastic — in the opinion of this writer.

These proffered projects come under three general headings: (1) Those aimed at conserving Texas' underground waters, (2) Those aimed at conserving surface waters, (3) Those aimed at importing water from other states.

Many of these plans are presented as the one-and-only solution. There is no one-and-only solution. That's the big trouble. The Texas water conservation problem is a bundle of problems. "Diversity" is the name for Texas as and everything in it, including its water problem.

There are, for example, fifteen big and little river channels that find their way from inland Texas to the Gulf Coast (and to the eastern boundary). Geographers sometimes refer to them collectively as the "Texas Basin." But it is a term of convenience not a basin.

These river channels and basins differ widely in physical character and runoff. Populations of these basins vary widely and without relation to the amount of water available in them. So we already have big cities in small river basins looking beyond the crescent of their own watersheds at other streams (Houston eyeing the Trinity; San Antonio trying to tap the Guadalupe; Dallas already on the Sabine and temporarily, at least, on the Red.) Lengthwise of each basin there is growing competition between upstream and downstream consumers.

As for groundwaters, the physical characteristics of the High Plains aquifer and uses of its water are quite different from those of the Edwards Plateau which are, in turn, quite different from those of the Coastal groundwater formations.

There has been only partial application to these problems of scientific principles or basic doctrine of water rights.

The Texas water problem is a jigsaw puzzle that will be hard to put together in a state-wide conservation program. No wonder two Legislatures have failed at a third one is now scratching its head.

We Texans have a heritage of fabulously rich natural resources. But we will tell the heritage down Dry Creek unless we do something about water conservation.

Just what can Texas do, in concrete terms, to solve its present water problem? More important, where is Texas going to get the 40 million acre-feet if the Texas economy is to grow at a rate commensurate with its great natural wealth.

It is a knotty problem. It can (See WATER, Page 8)

This Week --In Washington

By Clinton Davidson

During the next few months you will be hearing a lot of talk from Washington about changing the farm parity formula. Just what does it all mean?

Perhaps the first question that needs clarifying is: Just what is a parity formula? Briefly, it is a yardstick for measuring whether farm prices are fair in relation to cost of things farmers buy.

In 1938 Congress selected 1910-1914 as the "base" period; a time when income from the sale of farm products gave farmers equality of purchasing power with the average city worker. It was a period assumed to provide a fair exchange between what farmers produced and what they bought from city people.

For example, assume that wheat brought an average of $1 a bushel from 1910 to 1914, and a pair of shoes cost $3. If a pair of shoes cost $6 now, then since it would take twice as many bushels of wheat to buy them, parity for wheat would be $2 a bushel.

Last year Congress directed Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson to study the parity formula and make recommendations for improving it. The result was a recent recommendation that the "base period" be changed from 1910-1914 to 1947-56.

During the latter period the purchasing power of farm products was slightly less favorable to farmers than in the pre-world War I years. The result would be to give farmers a slightly shorter yardstick in measuring a fair price for their produce.

Again using wheat as an example, the Benson proposal would reduce parity for that bread grain from $2.48 a bushel to $2.26 a bushel. Parity for corn would be reduced from 1.80 a bushel to 1.66, and milk from 4.76 to 4.68 a hundredweight.

All of that would have very little meaning to farmers and consumers except for the fact that Congress requires the Secretary to support prices of many farm products at not less than a specified percentage of parity.

No one knows for sure just how much the lower parity would reduce price support loans to growers, but estimates range from 50 million to 100 million a year. The result would be to reduce farmer's purchasing power by that much.

Congress will be debating whether to adopt the Benson formula, leave the present formula as it is, or adopt some other yardstick. Two other formulae are being talked, and both have considerable backing.

One would be based on farm costs, including labor, machinery, seeds, fertilizer, taxes and other expenses of operating a farm. It would include also, a fair return on investment in land, livestock and buildings. Parity would be that price which would cover costs and give farmers a fair profit.

Last year, for example, gross farm income was sufficient to cover operating costs, excluding interest on investment, and give farmers $1.25 an hour for their labor. Had they gotten an 8 per cent return on investment, net farm income would have been $22 billion, just double what it was.

Another proposal, closely related, would establish parity as that price which would give farmers incomes equal to the average of non-farm people. Per capita farm income last year was about half as large as for non-farm people, on the average.

Johnson Bill Studied By Committee

A Senate subcommittee on agriculture will hold hearings Monday, March 18, on Sen. Lyndon Johnson's bill to establish a deferred grazing program for hard-hit pasture lands in Texas and other drought disaster areas.

Sen. Johnson's bill would authorize annual payments to farmers and ranchers in drought-stricken areas for keeping stock off pastures until the grass can recover from drought conditions. The payments would be roughly equivalent to the normal rental value of their grazing lands.

Similar legislation has passed the House of Representatives, sponsored by most members of the Texas delegation.

"The recent rains in Texas have made action on this bill more urgent than ever," Sen. Johnson said. "The rains will cause some grass to appear. This will offer a strong temptation for our stockmen, who have seen no grass at all for so long a time, to turn their livestock into the pastures."

It is important that these pastures be allowed to reseed themselves during the next few years. Otherwise, they will never again be as productive as in the past. Their full potential productivity will be needed in the years ahead if our livestock industry is to make a comeback from the disaster of the dry years."

Cage Clinic Set For March 27 at A&M

By C. B. Gaston

The 1957 Cage Laying Clinic has been announced by the A&M College Poultry Department, and will be held March 27th in the Ballroom of the Memorial Student Center. This program is open to anyone interested in learning more about this phase of the poultry business. It is reported that cage layers have increased from 272,000 in 1953 to 1,647,000 in 1956.

Coastal Bermudagrass is a top-notch forage producer if properly managed in adapted areas, says Extension Pasture Specialist E. M. Trew. This grass must be started from sprigs or rhizomes and is best adapted east of the Texas 30 inch rainfall belt. In this area it would have to have irrigation to grow to best advantage.

The Texas Certified Seed Producers have been announced as sponsors of a Texas Hybrid Grain Sorghum Contest. In this area, separate prizes are offered under irrigation and without irrigation. Any contestant must plant one of the Texas developed hybrids. Any farmer, 4-H Club member or FFA boy is eligible to enter the contest. All contestants must enter with the county agent by May 1 to be eligible.

Texas 36
A new corn hybrid was announced in this column recently. The variety is particularly recommended for the upland soils in the Blackland and Grand Prairies, the Rio Grande Plains and West Texas Cross Timbers, where earliness and drought resistance frequently are essential factors in corn production. The main factor in its favor is that it will usually mature a few days earlier than other varieties that have been planted in the past.

Test plots of this variety are being planted in this county and watch later announcements concerning meetings to look over the new varieties that will be grown here.

Good lawns don't just happen; they are the product of considerable time and effort. A fertile soil, proper watering, fertilization and mowing are essentials for establishing an attractive lawn. Bulletin 203, "The Home Lawn" is available at the county agent's office and will give much assistance to those interested in growing an attractive lawn.

Seedling disease has cost Texas growers an estimated 426,000 bales of cotton during the past five years says a report from the Texas Cotton Disease Council. Harlan E. Smith, extension plant pathologist, offers suggestions for halting these losses. Plant, he says, when the soil temperature, at about 7 a.m., is 68 to 70 degrees at a depth of 3 to 6 inches over a three day period. Treating the planting seed is good insurance against seed borne diseases but once the plant is growing, the protective period is over.

50 Miles Terraced

Fifty miles of terraces have been constructed by farmers of the Medina Valley Soil Conservation District during the first two months of 1957. Several miles of these have been constructed on land that is being put into the Soil Bank Program.

Officials of your soil conservation district strongly recommend that Class II and III land be terraced.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health, HENRY A. HOLLE, M.D., Commissioner

AUSTIN — When President Teddy Roosevelt ordered periodic health examinations for all army officers in 1908, he started what has since become recognized as one of the most vital single phases of health promotion.

A "periodic check-up" is simply a careful study of a presumably healthy person. It should be performed regularly once a year, preferably by the family physician as a means of detecting disease or body malfunction in an early stage. Early treatment not only reduces suffering, but it can also prevent some diseases from becoming chronic, and perhaps incurable.

Besides detecting disease at an early stage before it becomes too painful or too deep rooted, the check-up can serve as a basis for better health practices for the patient and his family. The physician can discuss such problems as diet, exercise, rest, work and play habits, and other activities that affect health. He can make a tentative appraisal of the patient's need for psychotherapy, and educate him toward a better understanding of himself.

How often and what type examination should be given varies with the patient's age, sex, occupation, heredity, past health, place of residence, and economic status. Says the American Academy of Pediatrics:

"The normally healthy infant should be checked about every six weeks during the first year; every three months during the second year; and once a year from the sixth to the twelfth year." Most medical authorities believe that from about 12 years up to age 40 to 45, annual health check-ups are adequate. After 45 some doctors advise examinations every nine months. These time schedules, keep in mind, are suggested for normal persons without previous serious or chronic illness.

No single examining routine can be applied to all persons, but all check-ups include a medical history, the actual physical examination, and certain laboratory and x-ray procedures.

The medical history gives the doctor clues as to what he should be especially alert for. It will include such things as family, social and occupational habits, teraced with level ridge type terraces regardless of the crop to be grown. Soil Bank land that is to be terraced, should be terraced prior to planting grass, to prevent disturbing it later during the reserve period.

Terraces are now under construction on the Dr. Robert F. Gossett farm near Black Creek and the Victor Saathoff and Alex Wendland farms near Hondo.

Henry Van De Walle of Castroville and Gene Turnbow of Lytle are in the process of land leveling 150 acres of land for irrigation. Oscar Nester of D'Hanis and J. B. Chadwick have recently completed land leveling 23 acres and 34 acres of land for proper flood irrigation on their farms.

Approximately 20 farmers of the Devine and Hondo areas attended the Medina Valley SCD meeting at the Devine High School Cafeteria last Thursday night. Strip cropping for control of wind erosion on sandy land, the Soil Bank Program, and methods of planting grass were discussed. Harold Stiegler, member of the Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, led the discussion on grass planting. Without doubt, Stiegler has planted more grass in this district than any other farmer and is well experienced in planting the principle types of grasses adapted to this area.

A meeting similar to that held at Devine was held at the Yancey High School auditorium Thursday night, March 7, at 7:30 p.m. All farmers in Yancey and the surrounding area were urged to attend this meeting.

Work will begin on the Medina Valley Soil Conservation District grass plot this week. Land for the grass plot was provided by Louis George of Hondo and is located on Highway 90.

Income Tax Returns Going Fast

More than 100,000 taxpayers in this District have already received their 1956 Federal Income Tax returns, according to R. L. Phinney, District Director of Internal Revenue Service.

"However," Phinney added, "a more taxpayers would also be eligible for refunds if they had doublechecked their returns before dropping them in the mail box."

"Others are failing to attach their W-2 withholding statements from employers, and some are phoning or writing Revenue to inquire about their refunds."

"All of this," Phinney explains, "slows up our production." "Revenue plans to have most refunds into the hands of eligible receivers by July 4, but naturally those who had mistakes on their returns and have been notified by our office may have to wait longer," Phinney said.

the command had arrived at a valley at night about 10 o'clock they stopped on a hill and the cannon, and the infantry lay down. Soon, however, the artillerymen commenced firing at the town, and before daybreak an advance was ordered. The place captured. Some of the soldiers at once proceeded to the church and got a suit of clothing which belonged to the man who was very fine, trimmed with gold lace, etc. The captain of the company to which the man belonged disposed of the suit, and placed him in jail.

Weynand had a town lot and twenty acres of land at D'Hanis, and now told his companion, whose name was Charles Frederick, that he would go out to his land and make a crop, and for him to stay in San Antonio and work and send supplies out to him. He again failed to make anything farming, and had to go back to San Antonio to get work. His companion obtained a job working on the Alamo, but unfortunately fell from the walls one day and was killed.

Mr. Weynand now got a bounty of $100 in lieu of 160 acres of land which was due him, and with this cash he again tried farming, and again failed. In 1849 he went back to D'Hanis. In 1850 he once more tried his hand as a tiller of the soil, and this time made a good crop and times again to get better. The Indians were not so bad, as the Texas rangers had come, and were stationed near the town on Seco Creek, at a point now the home of Mr. Louis Rothe.

After the rangers left, United States troops came and built Fort Lincoln, just below the old camp of the rangers.

Mr. Weynand now bought land and built a house upon it on the east bank of the Seco, just opposite Fort Lincoln. The troops at the fort were under the command of Major Longstreet, afterwards the famous Confederate general. Second in command was Lieutenant Dodge, for whom Dodge City, Kansas, was named. By this time Mr. Weynand had a family. In 1866 his and August Rothe went out on a cow hunt and camped in Hondo Canyon, twenty miles from home, and stayed there several days. One morning ten Indians came upon them, killed George Miller, and took young Weynand captive. He was but 12 years of age. Rothe alone made his escape and told the news. Mr. Weynand made many trips in search of his boy, but of no avail; he never saw him again. He heard once there was a captive white boy among some Indians in Mexico at San Fernando, and set out for the place, paying large sums of money for guides. His horse became sick in Mexico so that he could not travel, and he had to delay several days, and as soon as the horse recovered a Mexican stole him and he had to buy another. Mr. Weynand could not find his son. The captive boy was not his, and he gave up the search. Before starting back home Mr. Weynand discovered that corn was cheap there, and bought ninety bushels for 33 and one-third cents, and hired some Mexicans who were coming to San Antonio with wagons to transport it for him. For this he paid them $15, and sold the corn at home for $2 per bushel.

Mr. Weynand has been very unfortunate with his children. He had a large family, eleven boys and six girls. One of his boys died, another was stolen by Indians, one was accidentally killed by a friend when he was 19 years old, one of the same age was killed by a horse falling on him, another died a natural death, one had his arm shot off, and a daughter caught fire and burned to death.

Mrs. Weynand, who before marriage was Miss Angelina Ney, is a daughter of John Ney, whose father was a nephew of Napoleon's great field marshal, and fought under him at Waterloo. She was born in Prussia, six miles from the French line, at Dillingen, and came to San Antonio in 1846 as part of Castro's colony. When the remains of Col. Sam Walker were brought from Mexico for burial at San Antonio Miss Angelina was living there with the family of Mr. Geo. Paschal, father of Congressman Thomas Paschal, and helped to make the wreaths that were placed on the coffin of the hero of Humantla. Thomas J. Paschal at that time was two years of age.

Comets Score Win

The St. Louis Comets opened their 1957 baseball season with a decisive 11-0 victory over Sabinal High School. In spite of the cool weather, big Francis Lutz pitched a fine game for the victors as he gave up only 2 hits and struck out 13. Keith started for the losers and received credit for the loss.

Early Lead

The Comet nine jumped to an early lead in the second as they made use of the opponents' wildness and three singles to push across four runs. The outburst sent Keith over the job of trying to cool the Comet bats. He ran into trouble in the fourth as Carl Mangold singled and Bobby Tschirhart and Justin Jungman followed with back to back doubles. Lutz helped his own cause by getting a single and Rodney Tschirhart connected with a long drive to center for a triple to move the Comets out in front 8-0. The Comets got two more runs in the fifth and one in the sixth to round out the scoring.

Justin Jungman got 3 for 4 at the plate and Carl Mangold, making his first appearance in a Comet uniform, got 2 for 4. Lanky Lutz looked as well as the plate as on the mound, getting 2 for 3. Sophomore Jimmy Jungman caught his first game as first-string catcher, Royce Groff is still sidelined with injuries. Young Jimmy did a creditable job.

Track Meet

Two days following their opening baseball game, the Comet track team took part in a tri-team track meet with St. Mary's of Fredericksburg and St. Gerard's of San Antonio. Track has never been a Comet specialty and they placed third with 27 points. While the St. Louis boys showed improvement over last year, particularly in the field events, they lacked depth especially in the running events.

Rodney Tschirhart placed first in the high hurdles and fourth in the 440 to be high point man among the Comets. Emil Zinsmeyer won the shot put with a heave of 40 ft. 3 in.; Carl Mangold won the high jump; Francis Lutz and Justin Jungman placed first and second in the discus.

The Comets will continue to mix baseball and track for the next few weeks, until they settle down to league play in baseball during April.

WATER

be solved, but the time has come when Texans must get together on a state-wide, co-operative water conservation-and-use program. Texans must stop taking their water supply for granted, and go to work on a Lord-helps-him-who-helps-himself basis.

Texas must adopt a program that will conserve, as far as practicable, all the surplus water that falls on the surface of this state. That water must be conserved and used in the most economical manner. It must be re-used wherever possible.

The swiftest way for Texas to get a greater water supply is to speed up its dam-building program. But there are some big obstacles.

We sometimes say, self-reassuringly, that Texas dumps into the Gulf and across its eastern border an average of more than 50 million-acre-feet of water annually. Impounding this big surplus is not as simple as it sounds.

For one thing, Texas rivers are wrong-way-running rivers. The Nile is the rightest-running river in the world and flows them out into the desert.

Most Texas rivers run in the reverse of this. The Rio Grande brings mountain water to parched valleys, but the other large rivers snatching West Texas and hustle it off to East Texas where water is more plentiful, even if sometimes wasted.

The eastern third of Texas contributes 78.6 per cent of Texas contributes 78.6 per cent of the state's total water runoff, according to the State Board of Water Engineers. The big Central Water province contributes only 20.2 per cent; the High Plains and the Trans-Pecos only 1.2 per cent.

The surface-water conservation program should be aimed at holding in the upper valleys of Texas rivers. The future economic development of this great, rich part of the state depends on it.

Such a program would be closer to the so-called theory of appropriate water rights than to the older theory of riparian rights. Yet such a program could be so maintained that it would be helpful to the lower regions. The average flow in the lower channels would be lessened but it would be because of elimination of floods. The minimum flow would be raised. That's when water is wanted.

Here are some of the things that should be done to facilitate a surface water program:

1. Under the State Board of Water Engineers (either under this name or some such designation as State Water Conservation Commission) set up a comprehensive, integrated water conservation-and-use program. Employ the best technical force possible.

(The Water Conservation Committee's bill for a Water Development Board is now before Legislature, aimed at working out a master water conservation plan in connection with the two big state bond issues. If its activities are to be purely financial, it might work out. But reading the bill raises doubts. We do not want any two-headed monster running the Texas water program at this critical juncture. The real need is for an all-embracing water conservation department with administrative authority comparable to that of the Texas Highway Commission.)

2. Integrate state-federal-local programs with this strong central state agency as the top policy maker.

3. Strengthen the basin-wide water conservation districts and authorities. Encourage all-purpose, soil-water conservation programs. The Trinity River program is an excellent example.

4. Adopt the constitutional amendments for the two 100-200 million bond issues, as recommended to the Legislature by the Water Conservation Committee. These two issues would (1) assist cities and towns to build reservoirs and (2) enable the state to buy water space in federally constructed reservoirs which, in turn could be sold to cities and towns.

5. Provide for much greater

Fifth Grade

The Fifth grade has been working hard on science now that Spring is near. The main topic now is Plants and Soils. Dorothy FitzSimon has prepared an exhibit of different colored soils, and Mike Barros is doing a series of experiments on seed sprouting.

The individual gardens are thriving — the windows are full of bean vines. The class has been learning to use a microscope. A lot of work has been done on the fifth grade half of the school flower bed. Tony Rodriguez brought in a collection of arrow heads, including a beautiful spear head.

For Washington's birthday, the class read a play, with class members taking the different parts.

Flouresville (Pop 2,000) Can Do It

Medina County Can Build A Hospital

By Jerry June Berger

Flouresville, population 1,949 and located just south of San Antonio, is way ahead of Hondo in at least one respect.

Last Tuesday, 371 citizens of that town went to the polls and voted 355 to 16 in favor of $125,000 in bonds for a city hospital. The city council promised the voters before the election that city taxes would not be raised to take care of their utility system, both electric and water, were making such a profit that payments could be made direct from the city. And the Floresville direct rate is only $1 compared to Hondo's $1.20 per hundred dollar valuation.

At this point we hasten to explain we are not necessarily advocating that the City of Hondo build a hospital, even though they are making a profit through the utility system. We are pointing out what one other town, just pointing out what one other town, with a population of only one-third ours, is doing about the hospital situation.

We feel that a new hospital in this area should be a county-wide project. The immediate Hondo area is now being served by Medina Hospital, but as pointed out previously, the owners sincerely want to see it turned into a convalescent home as soon as other facilities are available. Devine has only a small clinic and our Hondo hospital frequently has patients from that area. We feel sure that the majority of people in the Devine-Natalia area would rather drive over uncrowded Highway 173 to Hondo than into overly crowded San Antonio for hospital care. If the hospital facilities are equal. And if we get the new hospital we should have facilities certainly would be equal.

D'Hanis and Yancey look to Hondo for hospital beds. Some Rio Medina patients come here.

Castroville is fortunate in having a good little hospital, which primarily serves their town and LaCoste. A county hospital could definitely be a service to them rather than a hindrance.

Legislature And The Peeve Bill

Almost without previous intimation that they were critical of the conduct of affairs of the State Department of Agriculture and Commissioner John White, a group described as Texas agricultural leaders suddenly comes forward with a bill which they want enacted immediately that would do away with the office of Commissioner of Agriculture and revamp that official state agency. For this purpose a bill has been prepared.

Commissioner White is a candidate for the US Senate in the April 2 election. He charges that the plan to do away with his office stems from the office of Federal Agriculture Secretary Benson, whose policies White has vigorously criticized.

The proposed bill would place the state agricultural commission in the hands of a 21-member board appointed by the governor and representatives of all segments of agriculture. The board then would name a commissioner of agriculture.

Commissioner White in 1952 refused to permit his name to be double-listed on both party tickets at a time when practically all other except local candidates permitted their names to be placed on the Republican ticket in order to strengthen that ticket. For this he was openly criticized as out of step with the times.

As its name shows, the Texas Department of Agriculture was set up to advance the cause of all phases of agriculture in the state. From the practical Patients needing laboratory tests could come to Hondo instead of San Antonio, when a new hospital with complete lab facilities and a competent technician are at work in the Medina County seat, yet their regular patients would continue to have medical facilities right at home.

Actually, some out-of-county patients come here for medical care also. Hondo doctors have patients from Tarpley, Utopia, Vanderpool and Sabinal.

So the need for an area hospital is obvious.

Citizens of Floresville are now taking their next step — that of applying for funds through the Texas State Department of Health. If approved, federal money from the Hill-Burton fund will match their $125,000 bond issue enabling them to build a $250,000 structure.

Before the Floresville election, every civic organization in the little city had gone on record supporting the project — women's church groups, civic clubs, servicemen's organizations, the fire department. And now that the bond issue has passed, these same organizations have pledged themselves to raise money for the undertaking. Their Volunteer Fire Department gave a dance and raised $650 recently and Saturday night the American Legion Post and Legion Auxiliary gave a games party which cleared $525 for the project. Members of organizations realize that after the building is in place, there will be a lot of ways to use money in furnishing and equipping the hospital.

Beginning next week, the Anvil Herald will publish an honor roll of organizations which have pledged their support to better hospital facilities in Medina County. If your organization has a meeting scheduled soon, bring up the subject. Have a discussion on the project and if the majority of the membership agrees, encourage them to make some statement about the county hospital situation. We want your organization on our Hospital Honor Roll.

political standpoint Commissioner White has been high on the winning side of every election in which he has run for the office, indicating a considerable popularity among those who actually are engaged in agricultural pursuits.

The proposal would increase the distance between the commission of agriculture and those he serves. The commissioner would be responsible to a group of 21 men, not directly to the great body of farmers and livestock growers and other citizens of Texas. The person named commissioner would be under the influence of 21 men to whom he owed his job, and not of the electorate.

We hope the Legislature will not be rushed into voting this legislation without examining all of the angles. It does not seem to be satisfactorily established that it is not prompted, in some degree, by a desire to get rid of an incumbent elected to office by changing the law instead of waiting for an election.

We do not think the best interests of Texas can be served by legislation having any taint of personality motivation.

If this kind of law is proper then we would have an argument for 21 big shots to name a governor, 21 lawyers to name an attorney general, 21 accountants to name a state auditor, and so on and representative government as the expression of the electorate would go out the window.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

The Medina County Chapter for Infantile Paralysis would like to take this opportunity to express its gratitude for the cheerful support during the Fund Campaign.

The chapter is grateful to the various civic, social and religious organizations; The American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the National Guard, Home Demonstration Clubs, the Boys Scouts and Cubs, the schools that participated in the card campaigns and the multitude of parents and young adults who helped to make the Mother's March on Polio so successful, and the publicity given the campaign by the Anvil Herald and Devine News.

DANGER AHEAD

Providing for Jobs

Our fast-growing population needs about 1,000,000 new jobs a year.

In manufacturing, an average of $14,100 of investment is required for each employee. The amounts needed for business expenditures on plant and equipment are tremendous. These sums must come from the savings and investments of our people.

Our present system of taxing incomes at higher and higher rates as earnings go up just doesn't make sense in a nation committed to dynamic progress and economic growth. It discourages initiative, penalizes success, and prevents the accumulations of savings and capital formation out of which growth is built.

Seco Alarmed Over Law That Might Keep Him From Selling At Less Than Cost

Editor's note: The Seco Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm probably is unnecessarily worried this week, but that's his worry, not ours.

Dear editor: I don't like to be an alarmist, but the Supreme Court is about to decide on an issue that could mean life or death to the farmer.

According to an article I read in a newspaper this morning while I was deciding whether to plow or think — it sometimes takes me longer than a court to decide such things and if I didn't to any more thinking than I did plowing this morning, a half day as sure wasted — one big milk company is suing another for selling milk below cost, and the Supreme Court is going to decide whether it's against the law to sell at below cost.

I tell you, let the Supreme Court rule it's unlawful to sell below cost and it'll wreck agriculture.

Ever since farming started, one of the inalienable rights of a farmer has been to sell below cost.

I know there is one theory out in Washington now that the way to eliminate the surplus is to lower the price to where a farmer can't make any money growing whatever is in surplus, but whoever thought up that idea just ain't familiar with farming. When the price drops, all it means is that a farmer has to work twice as hard and produce twice as much to get by. At least that's the way I've found it.

Maybe a law keeping big milk distributors or drygoods stores or grocery stores from selling below cost will work, but you apply it to farming and you've opened up a hornet's nest of trouble.

PERSONAL APPEARANCE

By Jerry June Berger

It was sunshiny and bright in Hondo Monday morning, so MILLIE ECKHART was quite sure that ALBERT MANGOLD was joking when he came in to the Mill and said he had just had a 1.2 inch gulley-washer on his farm about three miles south of Tarpley. She was sure he meant dust, but he kept insisting it really was rain — that it had fallen in a matter of a few minutes time, making the creek rise and taking out a lot of fences as water in the creek rolled on southward. The banks were full as far down as the BENDELE crossing.

So you see, the clouds haven't quite forgotten how to drop a downpour in our area — they're just a bit bashful about getting started.

MRS. AMOS HARLEE is back on the job in the Medina County Farm Bureau office at the court house following a five-day stay in a San Antonio hospital last week. She had surgery, but is able to work on a part-time basis this week.

Another Hondoan, one-month old BRUCE HOWARD MARTIN, is in a San Antonio hospital at the present time. The son of ETHEL and JOE MARTIN, he has had difficulty finding a milk formula that will agree with him. In Baptist Memorial Hospital for two weeks, he is gradually improving and we know you'll join with us in hoping BRUCE will be able to come home with his parents soon.

To those of you who missed the Talent Show at the high school Friday night: You missed a treat. We'll have to admit we went not expecting to see a whole lot, but found ourselves most pleasantly surprised at the array of routines.

The program was sponsored by the Future Homemakers of Hondo High and we think they ought to make it an annual affair, judging from the large crowd that turned out and from their response.

The talent was gathered by a simple method — volunteers. The girls posted a notice on the bulletin board at school and persons interested in participating signed up.

There was a lot of foolishness interspersed with the more serious selections, making an entertaining evening for the audience. One of the nonsensical numbers was a quartet of young ladies, who, dressed as flappers from the 1920 era, did a song and dance number. It was quite interesting to us that DOYLE E. ENLOE, of this quartet, was wearing the wedding outfit of ERNA MARTIN.

MRS. MARTIN married in 1924 and her beige satin-back crepe dress was long-waisted and knee length. On the skirt was an apron-effect panel of beige net and lace and the yoke of the dress repeated the net and lace. The net and lace were also used on the beige hat which, in shape, resembled a wash bucket turned upside down and coming right down to her eyes. Her gloves were long and tucked the full length. Actually, except for the length of the skirt, the entire outfit was not too different from the flapper look some Paris designers are advocating at the present time.

But, back to the talent show, the greatest round of applause went to the Heidelberg Quintet which has entertained for many different organizations in town. These five boys, cadets from German stationed at Hondo Air Base, sing in both English and German and we hear that their tunes are a lot funnier when the listener understands German. They use a lot of ad libs in their songs.

We are undecided as to whether we are more impressed by their singing or by their complexions. All good-looking fellows, they have downright pretty skin and coloring — it is obvious they have not been exposed long to Texas' summer sun and wind.

No Deadline Set For Land Sales

AUSTIN — There is no deadline for participation in the Veterans' Land Program, Land Commissioner Earl Rudder said Friday.

"As long as a man is a Texas veteran and money is available to operate the program," Commissioner Rudder added, "he may participate. Of course, a veteran may use the program only one time."

Commissioner Rudder said that his statement was prompted by numerous enquiries that the Veterans' Land Board had received about a time limit.

Recruiter Is High For Area

T-Sgt. Lee R. Rankin, Air Force Recruiting representative in the Hondo Area, was the outstanding recruiter in his sector for the month of February. According to Captain Thomas H. Baker, commander of the South Texas Recruiting Detachment, Sgt. Rankin achieved 157 per cent of his assigned quota. This record was second in the entire detachment.

Sgt. Rankin is also the leading recruiter in his sector for the entire period, July 26 through February 1957. He enlisted 91 men during this period.

Capt. Baker attributed Sgt. Rankin's outstanding record, in part, to the excellent cooperation he has received from town and county officials, schools and civic and fraternal organizations.

The recruiting service is proud of Sgt. Rankin, his production record and the place he has made for himself and the Air Force in his community by contributing freely of his time and talents to civic affairs, local charities and benefits.

Sgt. Rankin will be host to the members of his sector in Eagle Pass at their meeting on March 15 and 16.

Hondo Included In Ad

Hondo is one of a number of South Texas cities and towns included in the area described in a United Gas industrial development advertisement appearing in the March 11 issue of Time Magazine, it was learned here today. The full-page, two color ad is illustrated with a road map of this area and invites new and expanding industries to investigate the advantages of locating in this territory.

The United Gas advertisement is one of a series designed to attract industry to the flourishing "Gulf South", the area served by United Gas in South Texas, East Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, the Alabama Gulf Coast and Northwest Florida. Each ad in the series pertains to a different section of the Gulf South, it was reported.

In addition to Time Magazine, the same ad is scheduled to appear in the March 18 issue of Newsweek, the March 29 issue of United States News & World Report, the April 6 issue of Business Week and the April 16 issue of Wall Street Journal.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Greetings: In March of each year, the 32 million Americans comprising the membership of the American Red Cross compile and present to our people an account of their stewardship in aid of the purpose and aim of this humanitarian movement. Such a report is always significant and meaningful to Texas and Texans.

The size of our State is such that we annually suffer more natural disasters than any other of our sister States. The rescue and rehabilitation of victims of these disasters depends gratefully upon the effectiveness of the Red Cross organization and activity and upon the skill and courage of our people who have been trained by Red Cross in essential techniques of survival.

During the past Red Cross year, 21 such catastrophes occurred in Texas. As a result, 539 families needed and were given individual assistance and 1,276 persons were given mass care.

In addition to that most essential service, Red Cross in Texas, during its past year, has —collected 14,305 units of life-giving blood for defense and civilian needs;

—trained 38,081 Texans in first aid, 7,610 in home care of the sick, 4,469 in mother and baby care and 68,967 in water safety; —helped a monthly average of 15,343 persons or families in service to the armed forces, and vice to their families, giving veterans and their families assistance to those in need;

—directed a monthly average of 13,440 volunteers who gave thousands of hours of service to their fellowmen;

—enrolled 1,197,471 Texans as

Thirteen Medina County men were among the 500 delegates to the annual convention of the San Antonio Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Men in San Antonio Sunday, March 10.

The 13 were Maurice Lutz, Adolph D. Adolph, Robert Zuberbuehler, O. J. Bomba Jr., and L. E. Pope, all of Hondo; John Pooner, John Nester, Edward Lutz, and Hubert Lutz, all of D'Hanis; Edward Rangel, Ysidro Julacia, and Dionicia Duron, all of LaCoste; and Mike Smith of Castroville.

They took part in a day-long program of general sessions and workshops on family life, the family-sized farm, and community service.

The delegates followed through on the speeches and workshop discussions by passing resolutions calling for an increase in family prayer, a halt to the decline of the family-sized farm, and an increase in Catholic participation in civic affairs.

Speakers at the workshop on the plight of the family-sized farm called for a minimum on cotton acreage allotments and a maximum on government subsidy payments. Mike Smith was one of the workshop speakers.

The delegation elected Pat Maloney, San Antonio attorney, as president of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Men for 1957. As ACCM president, Maloney becomes the leader of a federation of 14 men's organizations whose membership totals 25,000 in 32 south central Texas counties.
